Public Printing.

James E. Hughes, formerly of this city, now State Printer of the second-class, Lexington, has secured another job of State printing, two volumes of the Decisions of the Court of Appeals. Mr. Hughes has attained to prominence among printers because of his determination to go to the top. Mt. Sterling, like Lexington, the home of his adoption, should be proud of him.

Everybody's friend—Dr. Thomas Electric Oil. Cures toothache, earache, sore throat, heats cuts, bruises, scalds, stops any pain.

Eclipse of the Sun.

An annular eclipse of the sun took place Wednesday, but the inhabitants of North America were not able to see it. It was visible over the whole of South America and a portion of the southwestern coast of Africa. Observations were taken by the Lowell expedition, headed by Prof. Todd, of Amherst College, which is now encamped in the high deserts of northern Chile. Photographs were taken with the aid of a mammoth telescope and an especially constructed camera.

Fortifying America's Pacific Dependencies.

There is to be no delay on the part of the War Department in utilizing the appropriations made at the last session of Congress for fortifying the American dependencies in the Pacific ocean.

The appropriation included $200,000 for the construction of sea coast batteries in the Hawaiian Islands and $500,000 for the same purpose in the Philippines. For accessories $130,000 was granted, and for the construction of mining, casemates, etc., necessary for the operation of submarine mines, $200,000 was authorized. For the purchase of submarine mines and the necessary appliances to operate them an appropriation of $495,500 was made.

The reason some people have so little interest in church work is because they have so little principle.

GRAFT ALLEGED IN OWEN COUNTY.

Forty Three Indictments Returned.

ENTIRE FISCAL COURT INDICTED

The grand jury of Owen county has reported investigations into the fiscal affairs of the county. The indictments include malfeasance in office, obtaining money under false pretenses and false swearing, mutilation of county records and misappropriation of county funds. Forty-three indictments were returned.

LIST OF THE INDICTED.

W. P. Swope, former County Clerk and Sheriff, five charges in connection with his office as County Clerk.

County Judge W. P. Yancey, malfeasance in office.

W. E. King, member Fiscal Court, malfeasance in office.
T. O. Prather, Magistrate, malfeasance.

J. C. Jones, Magistrate, charged with malfeasance, with obtaining money under false pretenses and with false swearing.

County Clerk R. J. Walker, charged with issuing false claims against the county.

ILLEGAL FEE BILLS.

We find that each member of the present court, including the County Judge, has presented these illegal fee bills and received payment of same out of the funds of Owen county.

The State is Watching Louisville.

The political situation in Louisville has never attracted the attention of the State as it does today.

The public understands now what a contest has been carried on here for years with the foes of good government. The action of the Court of Appeals has been approved. The course of the Governor is applauded not merely by Democrats, but by the people at large.

Now Louisville itself is watched to see whether our people are capable of self-government. Party capital can be made under these conditions only by the highest public service. If the Louisville Democrats should betray the cause of good government their influence in party councils would be gone. Should the Republicans subordinate the cause of good government to party necessities, real or imaginary, their party would suffer in the State. Should the Fusionists falter in their support of Democrats, who are applying to the conduct of city affairs the principles for which the Fusionists have clamored, their splendid fight for two years will be clouded and they will fall to the position of partisan fee leaders.—Louisville Evening Post, Republican.

MAYOR WOODS.

Official Searching for Whisky in Local Option Town.

At Richmond, Ky., a warrant was sworn out by Moreland Creekmore, an ex-saloon keeper, charging Mayor Clarence E. Woods with taking property without felonious intent, the Mayor having opened a saloon which Mr. Creekmore had deposited near an open cellar on Third street. The Mayor alleges that he suspected whisky was in the grip, and that it had been left at the spot by prearrangement.

Mayor Woods on hearing that the warrant had been issued went before County Judge Turpin, gave bond in the sum of $100 and asked that the matter be referred to the next grand jury. N. B. Dentherage, president of the Law and Order League, signed Mayor Woods' bond.

Randolph H. Blain.

Mr. Randolph H. Blain accepted the appointment from the Governor as Judge of the City Court of Louisville.

The appointment will be heartily endorsed by the entire city of Louisville. He is an old Confederate soldier. He came to Louisville shortly after the war. He is an attorney who has won the confidence of the bar and of the public.

Mr. Blain has long been identified with the work of the organized charities of the city of Louisville.

Furthermore, he is ex-officio member of the License Board. As Judge of the City Court he sees daily presented the story of sin and suffering throughout the city.

He becomes familiar with the work of the lawless saloons and will carry from the bench to the License Board a knowledge and an experience of great value.

The Governor is to be commended for his selection, and the public is to be congratulated upon his acceptance.—Louisville Evening Post.

Thankfulness.

There was once a man who was very fond of flowers, and was able to have a garden as beautiful as he wanted it to be. It soon bloomed gloriously. But he planted a high wall all about his garden, and the neighbors and passers-by never knew what loveliness bloomed within. Poor people and sick people and discouraged people passed that way and would have been helped by the beauty and splendor of the flower garden if there had been no wall around it. So there are men and women who have a garden of beautiful thoughts in their hearts which are the outcome of beautiful experiences; but they have built a high wall of silence and reserve around themselves, and the men and women who would be helped by the testimony and by the helpful telling of experience go on their way uncheered and unhelped. What we have of experience is for our brother, and when we sing the new song which the Lord hath given us "many shall see it, and shall trust in the Lord."—Selected.

No More Free Lunches.

At a meeting of the Saloonkeepers' Protective Association in Maysville it was decided by a unanimous vote to do away with all free lunches. Some time ago they raised the price of "growlers" to ten cents. They claim that there was no money in free lunches as those who got the benefit of them were the ones who usually bought only one glass of beer.

Adam's sin shows us how foolish it is to do a thing just because some one asks us to.

Selling Liquor to an Inebriate.

Every now and then we see in the Lexington papers such a notice as the following: "On the charge of habitual drunkenness — was fined $30 and costs and on account of his inability to pay the fine was sent to the workhouse where he will have to serve — days. — has been in the Police Court several times before on the charge of being drunk, and each time he was given another chance. He begged for another lease on freedom yesterday but was refused."

We do not remember in late years ever having seen such a notice followed by another that said: "Such and such a saloon keeper was then arraigned on the charge of selling liquor to an habitual drunkard, and was given the line for this offense imposed by the statute." The statute imposes a fine of $50 for each offense.

This law has been a dead letter in our community for a long time. The ordinance that says, "Any person who shall sell my liquor to a minor, — shall be subject upon conviction to a fine of $30 and costs for each offense," was for a long time also a dead letter. This is beginning, however, to be observed in Lexington, due in some measure to the efforts of the probate officer of the Louisville Court. The Mayor has signified his willingness to the probate officer to revoke a saloon license whenever it could be proven that the law against selling liquor to minors was being violated, and at least one saloon keeper forfeited his license after indictment by the grand jury for this offense. There is no reason why a State law, re-enforced by city ordinance, prohibiting the sale of liquor to an habitual drunkard, should not be enforced; there is every reason why it should be enforced. A drunken man is always a dangerous man. The habitual drunkard is a menace to the women and children and men whom he meets on the streets or on highways. Promiscuous shooting of pistols on our country roads by drunken men is too frequent and is full of danger. It is possible that a saloon keeper may sometimes sell liquor to an habitual drunkard without knowing the fact; it is not at all probable. We presume there is no man, woman or child, of observing age, who cannot count in his acquaintance at least one habitual drunkard, whom he has seen on the streets or country roads, time after time, in a state of intoxication. If every child knows the habitual drunkard, the saloon keeper can certainly inform himself on the subject.—Lexington Herald.

New Enterprises in Lexington.

Within a period of about two months the following business enterprises have been started in Lexington:

The Bluegrass Tobacco Factory created a $15,000 factory employing about 200 laborers.

The American Tobacco Company a $65,000 factory, will employ about 150 hands; and the Shelburne Tobacco Company a warehouse employing about 25 men.

Standard Cigary Company about 15 men, and the Petty Stemmy employs about 140 laborers.

The new wholesale dry goods house of Woolfork & Thompson will be opened in a short time. This handsome new four-story building will cost about $35,000.

W. W. Kennett has established a wholesale furniture store.

The Boyce & Crogan Lumber Company has rebuilt its saw and planing mill and works about 65 laborers.

The Ashland Broom Company. J. L. Clark has opened a large woven wire factory.

The plans for a five-story warehouse have been made by the Vaubert Hardware Company.

The Combs Lumber Company has recently added a mantle department.

Excursion Season Opens.

First excursion to Cincinnati via Q. & C. will be Sunday, April 14, and every other Sunday thereafter through the month of October.

Announcement.

CHIEF OF POLICE.
I am a candidate for Chief of Police of Mt. Sterling, subject to the action of the Democratic party. I have a record of successful service in the city of St. Louis, where I have been for the past 10 years. My support is solicited.
R. F. MASTIN.

WORTHY.

What the Democratic administration of public affairs in Kentucky has done for the common schools of the State, and is doing as is evidenced by the action just taken by Superintendent J. H. Faquin in declaring a per capita for them for the coming school year of $3.40, is one of the incentives under which its nominees will go before the people in the November election. This per capita is the largest declared by the Department of public Instruction.

PROSPERITY.

That Democratic administration of public affairs in the State of Kentucky for the last seven years has been for the best interests of all the people of the State, is evidenced by the influx of foreign capital during the last few years seeking investment. The public records will bear out the statement that more money has poured into Kentucky during the last half a dozen years than for a quarter of a century before; that more firms and corporations with large capital have been organized within the State by citizens of other States in conjunction with citizens of Kentucky; and that more of the fortunes made in Kentucky have been invested within the State than during any similar period in the history of the State. That nothing is more chary than money seeking investment is a well known fact.

ENFORCE THE LAW.

After two fights in Lexington in which two lawyers carrying pistols shot at other men and after one man was killed Circuit Judge Parker spoke plain words to the grand jury:

"I want you to go fully into these disgraceful events. I think it would be far better to stop investigating other charges if it is necessary so that something can be done to enforce the law."

"I do not like to say it, gentlemen, but I doubt if there is any place in the country that has so little regard for the laws as the people in this very county of Fayette."

He told the grand jury to look well into the charges made against gambling.

He said in part: "The law must be enforced and I would impress upon your minds that you should look well into the saloon closing law. I feel that everything in this regard is being done that can be done, but I want you to root out the various evils which have their hold on this city."

Investigate fully the occurrences of last Saturday and place the blame where it belongs. I am unalterably opposed to any man carrying a weapon of any kind and if it is possible to be done it must be stopped."

READY FOR THE FRAY.

The State ticket is preparing for an active campaign, asking that the ticket be elected on the principles of Democracy. Declaring against centralization, favoring a reduction of the tariff and opposing the trust methods. The affairs of the State are an open book.

A Democratic administration is constructing a capitol building that will invite comparison with that of any State in the Union and that without increasing the rate of taxation.

The school per capita has been increased to $3.40, leaving a balance in the Treasury to the credit of this department.

The temperance question has been strengthened by the enactment of the County Unit Bill and additional measures helpful to the cause will follow. The "hit" is on, in Louisville and other cities and the moral sentiment of the State is being led by the Democratic administration.

The people know that things far beyond their fondest dreams are being realized and at the present aggressive rate Kentucky will soon be listed among the first in morals and the people will press onward with that party that leadeth to victory.

MOUNTAINS DEMOCRATIC.

It appears to the public that the Republican nominee for Governor, Willson, will exhaust the greater part of his powers trying to persuade the mountain people to vote for him for Governor. Now, Willson had just as well stay away from that section for the mountain voters are unalterably prohibitionists and are pledged to the party that stands for relief from this terrible curse that binds them. We look for a mighty majority from that section.

We announce the candidacy of R. F. Mastin for re-election as Chief of Police of this city. He has been Chief for 18 months. So far as we have heard his vigilance, enforcement of law and conduct as a citizen and officer have been commendable. For over twenty years he has been on the force, and is in a position to know what ought to be corrected.

ONE MAN DID IT.

If one man could be the instrument through whom a $15,000.00 depot will be erected, what wonderful things could be accomplished by a united effort.

Kentucky Crop Report.

The first half of June was quite wet, raining nearly every day. Corn planting, especially in lowlands, that was already late, was still further retarded by these excessive rains. Early planted corn suffered for cultivation and many fields became foul with grass and weeds. The latter half was almost ideal, and gave farmers a splendid opportunity to get their wheat in the shock in good condition, and wage a war on the weeds that were rapidly taking their corn fields.

The acreage of corn is a little short of last year, owing to the unfavorable weather. Much low lands would have been planted under favorable conditions. The corn crop is not up to the standard, causing a great deal of replanting and making the crop very irregular. The wheat crop improved materially during the month, but will fall short of an average crop. While the yield will be less than an average, the berry promises to be very fine. The prospective yield is 16 per cent. less than the 1906 crop. Oats promise three-fourths of the 1906 crop. Many counties are almost a failure and only a few have full crop.

Rye promises some better, but considerably below last year. Hemp is nearly up to last year in acreage and condition. Burley tobacco is reported 10 per cent. short of last year in acreage, owing to scarcity of plants and labor. Much of this was planted late in June and will depend largely upon a late fall if it makes a good yield. The dark district has fallen off 25 per cent. in acreage for want of plants to set a full crop. Much of this is also late. Grusses are doing fairly well. The high price and scarcity of seed cut the acreage of stock peas. Potatoes promise a full crop. The fruit crop, except berries, will be a very short one. Near a full crop of sorghum and millet. On the whole the outlook is not so gloomy as appeared some weeks ago.

Mr. Harry Linthecum, proprietor of the corner grocery, is very much elated over the opening of his meat department Monday. The favorable comments were highly gratifying and Mr. Linthecum is encouraged to believe that our people will buy only the best.

Is the Fault With the Bar or the Public?

It is a familiar expression that two lawyers will grow rich where one will starve—a polite form of expression for the harsher implication which underlies it. It must be admitted there is in every community a class of would-be lawyers whose sole aspiration is to encourage litigation, to magnify to some aggrieved individual his supposed wrongs for the sole purpose of provoking a lawsuit, when a few kindly words would prevent all controversy and let leave friends where he would leave embittered foes. It must also be admitted there is in every community a class of lawyers who, to preserve a semblance of respectability, employ the acme of despicability, the "runner," the "solicitor," the "ambulance chaser," the "ghoul," to work up a suit and secure his principal's employment. Unfortunately this class is increasing rather than diminishing. While it is true they represent only the lower side of the professional life, the commercial fragment, they serve, nevertheless, to drag down the standing of the entire profession. Against those the bar itself, it seems to us, should wage an unceasing war of extermination.

It is a painful admission, but the prevalence of a class of lawyers whose practice is limited to the arts of chicanery and trickery was never so great as it is today. With the advent of this class of lawyers has come, too, a growing disrespect for the time-honored ethics of the profession, followed by a species of practices that must inevitably result in irreparable mischief to the Bar of the State. Every profession or organization, lay as well as ecclesiastical, is gauged more by the character and standing of the bad than the good elements which compose it. As one hypocrite in a church has more influence for mischief than the twelve apostles would have for good, so one crooked lawyer can do more to break down the reputation of a bar than a dozen men of character can do to maintain it.

No man's character is safe in a community where he operates. No enterprise, public or private, but is open to any predatory raid he may care to make. No community can enjoy rest and tranquility where he is present. He is a fly in the ointment, a Mordecai at the gate, a drought in a summer, a pestilence in winter, in short, the one thing altogether not desired. It ought to be made a cause of dishonor for a lawyer to seek employment. The Association, now in session, could do no better than adopt a resolution similar to that adopted by the American Bar Association at a recent meeting. — Lexington Herald, July 12.

NO GRAFT

Or No Money. Franciscans Have to be Good If They Want Funds.

San Francisco has been told by Eastern banks and capitalists that it must drive out grafters and put an end to strikes, boycotts and anarchy, otherwise it cannot borrow money in the East to rebuild its 28,000 structures shaken down by the earthquake and burned. New Yorkers are unwilling to advance more capital under the present conditions.

San Francisco will need $150,000,000 in the next three years for the rebuilding of the city. Its loss in buildings was $200,000,000. It received only $180,000,000 in insurance. The banks had $160,000,000 on deposit when the disaster came. The greater part of this has been loaned upon good security for the rebuilding of the city. Four millions more have been borrowed from Eastern banks.

The people of San Francisco have become aroused to the cold, hard conditions in finance which confronts them and are demanding independence from the rule of graft and tyranny. Up until there has been apathy upon the part of the majority of that class of citizens, which elsewhere would be looked to for an uprising against corruption and business paralysis caused by the turmoil.

The Eastern bankers had learned that the Mayor of San Francisco was under indictment on charges of graft, the members of the Board of Supervisors had confessed that they had been bribed over and over again, the Chief of Police was in sympathy with and protected the lawless element among strikers, the Sheriff refused to aid the prosecuting officers, the heads of most of the important commissions conducting municipal affairs were known grafters and citizens who were officials in many public utility corporations were under indictment for bribery.

Sire of $30,000 State Winner Sold for $15.

One of the greatest and most successful thoroughbred sires, Inspector B., was sold on the public square in Lexington on Thursday for $15. The old stallion will be gelded and spend the remainder of his days by the side of a mule pulling a plow. His owner, Col. Milton Young, the master of McGrathum Stud decided to sell him to the highest bidder. He sired Endurance By Right, a brilliant state winner of sixteen races, for which the late W. C. Whitney paid $30,000 as a two-year-old.

Hot Time.

In Cynthiana a permit was granted on Saturday to erect a tent on public square for temperance meetings. Later the Council rescinded the order. In the meantime the tent had been partially put up. Mayor Ashbrook swore out a warrant, resulting in the arrest of Revs. Plennmons and Clark, pastors of the Baptist and Methodist Churches, and seven other prominent citizens who were putting up the tent, on charge of obstructing public highways. Immediate trial was given and the prisoners were dismissed. The temperance forces are in control.

Change of Name Recommended.

At a joint meeting of the committees from the Board of Trustees of Kentucky State College and Kentucky University held Thursday the representatives decided to recommend to the boards that the name of the A. & M. College of Kentucky be changed to that of "State University, Lexington, Kentucky."

Rev. Mark Collis, pastor of the Broadway Christian church, was elected chairman and Judge W. T. Lafferty, of Cynthiana, secretary. Nothing was said regarding the change of the name of K. U.

Kentucky University was represented by Mark Collis, W. H. Cassell, and Judge J. H. Hazelrigg.

THE LINE BETWEEN

Stein-Bloch and Hamburger Clothing

And other ready-to-wear clothing is so great that even poorest judges of merchandise can at once see the difference, to say nothing of the discriminating buyer, who long ago learned that all things are classified and that all standard goods are labeled. The labels on the Stein-Bloch and Hamburger Suits stand for a half century's work, worry, system, and knowing how; to make and keep them the foremost ready-to-wear clothes in the world. They stand today in a class that is strictly their own, and of their own making, they are different, and if they were not different they would not be here; and again, if Walsh Bros. could not sell different clothes from other stores, they would not be selling clothes. To the man who lives in this great country, who is carrying the high-priced tailor's burden, or shoddy tailor's raiment, we know there is a reason for your sorrow. Perhaps some years ago you bought ready-to-wear clothes from some unscrupulous store who cared not for fit, style, fabric, or you, and you have since camped out. We want you; we want you to return to ready-to-wear clothes, to come to our store and see the great progress your country has made in the tailoring of ready-to-put-on apparel. It is worth your while, and the more discriminating you are the more capable you will be of appreciating the art of our offerings. COME TO-DAY.

The great Stein-Bloch Suits and Outing Suits in the new English sack coats, made with broad, elegant shoulders, new style set pockets, new style cuffs on sleeves, with deep gorge collars and broad lapels, closing with 3 buttons that are set very close together; new 3 and 4-button vests with or without flaps on pockets; and the latest cut trousers that are especially tailored for spring and summer wear. The greys, blues, browns and tans which are so popular this season in fabrics for men's clothes show up beautifully in the English Sack. Stein-Bloch Suits as low as $18 and up to $30.

The celebrated Hopkins Straw Suits and Pannums are now on sale. We show the only line of straws coming direct from the makers and the largest line in the city. The new bleached enamel process used by the Hopkins people gives life and luster to the straw. Their styles are authority and their hats are sold by the best stores everywhere. We have the sole agency for Hopkins Straws and Pannums here.

The Newport Sack, the Sagamore Sack are two of the latest creations from the tailor shops of Hamburger. These garments are swell things for young fellows who want extremes in their clothes. The fabrics are the latest things shown in the New York market, and have just come in by express. Gun Club Checks, Chain Weaves and Shadow Plaids in Racine Velour Cassimeres. The fabric here used in these garments has no equal for its shape-retaining qualities, the broad shoulders and curved lines of Hamburger's garments rounds out the figure of the youth as no other clothing can.

SUITS FROM $15 TO $30.
OUTING COATS AND TROUSERS, $10 TO $20

The Manhattan Shirt, the Eclipse Shirt and our own Custom Goods offer a collection that comprises every want of man in shirts. The colorings, the combination weaves, the interlining of stripes and bars, the bold plaids cover every inch of shirt thought. We carry all sizes and sleeve lengths. We show the separate collar and attached collar styles with plain or turn-back cuffs, shirts coat open front or open back. Our large collection enables us to fit and suit every customer. RESOLUTIONS

Of Mt. Sterling Tent No. 45, K. O. T. M. on the Death of Sir Knight W. T. Moore.

At a called meeting of Mt. Sterling Tent No. 45, Knights of the Macabees, July 14, 1907, a Committee on Resolutions, composed of Sir Knights H. B. Kinsolving, M. R. Hainline and Chas. B. Stephens were appointed by the Commander to draft resolutions expressive of the sentiment of this tent in regard to the death of Sir Knight W. T. Moore. Resolution reported by the Committee and unanimously adopted is as follows:

"WHEREAS, It has pleased the Great Commander of the Universe to remove from our earthly Tent and fellowship our highly esteemed Sir Knight and brother, W. T. Moore, and initiated him into the sublime Knighthood of our Great Camp above, therefore, we, his surviving brother Knights, hereby record our deep sense of sorrow in his loss to our Tent and here wish to testify to his sterling worth and splendid rectitude of conduct as a citizen and his true devotion and loyalty to our cause and Tent as a Knight of the Macabees of the World, and we hereby tender our profound sympathy to his sorrowing family. That these resolutions be recorded in the record book of our Tent and published in the Mt. Sterling Advocate and Gazette.

Five two little Kentucky girls. We are Kentucky girls and will try to visit the Advocate office once a year. We have been here five months and like it fine. We think of our old Kentucky homes in Montgomery county. The weather is so cold here we can't wear white dresses and plant gardens like we always did in Kentucky. This is the 12th of July and it is cold enough to snow. We had a snow in Sprucewood the 16th of April 6 feet deep, but did not freeze the two little Kentucky girls. TURKISH WIFE'S REVENGE ON FAITHLESS HUSBAND.

Subtle Poison Brought Quick End to Woman's Faded Romance—Revelation of a Tragic Secret of the Harem.

A Turkish subject who married an American man and lived in this country for six years has recently revisited the land of her birth. She has been describing for Appleton's Magazine some of her experiences. Here is one of them.

"Chakende Hanum was the daughter of Nazim Pasha. She was educated in the western fashion. She was as beautiful as an houri, and as good as Allah's own heart. She was given as a wife to Djamil Pasha, a young and dashing courtier. They were very much in love with each other, and he promised her that she should remain his first and only wife. Their marital life was blessed with two boys and one girl. Chakende grew more beautiful as happiness became her daily portion.

"One day, when she was returning with her retinue from a visit she had made in Stamboul, on the bridge of Galata, and in a closed carriage, she saw her husband in company with a foreign woman. That night when he came home she questioned him, and he only answered that the lady was a foreigner. Chakende Hanum understood that her husband did not wish to be asked any more questions. Early in the morning, however, she sent for her brother, and from him she learned what was generally known.

"She took a few of her slaves and went to her country place. She picked there for several days, giving the situation her whole thought; then she came back to her husband. She told him that she knew the truth, that she had thought the matter over and had decided to give him back his word as to her remaining his only wife. Thus he could marry the foreign lady. It was then that Djamil Pasha turned her from Allah. He laughed at her, and said that Mlle. Rohaud of the French theatrical company was the kind of a woman that men loved, but did not marry. Chakende Hanum said nothing, but that very same day went into her brother's apartment and plucked a laurel tree. You know, young Hanum, what you can do with those roses?"

A shiver ran down my back as I uttered.

A few nights later when Djamil Pasha was about to retire, Chakende Hanum prepared his chamber for him. Her hand did not tremble, though her face was white as she handed it to him. It did not last long; Djamil Pasha died from an unexplained malady; but Chakende Hanum kept on plucking laurel roses daily. After a while they put her in her little grave, too, five years ago."

We sat silent for awhile. The moon had traveled fast and was now near the water, bridging the Phosphorus with her moonlight. The garden, the hills and the water changed with the changing slant of the rays, and became more wondrously enchanting still, though that had not seemed possible before, and enthralled me with the fascination of the east—the east whose language and ways of dealing with right and wrong had been alien to me for six years.

A MECHANIC PRIEST.

Cure Mends Motor Cars When Not Engaged in Holy Offices.

Near the northern coast of France, on a route much frequented by motorists, lies the village of Graincourt. From a beautiful little church is seen high among the trees, with a tower reflected tranquilly in a lake that sleeps beside the road, and a cemetery half hidden in verdure. "Come by in the house of the priest, and around it a strange litter of bicycles, motor cycles, automobiles, oil cans and tools, the open door of a car, and a sign on the other side of a repair shop. From this building, as the tourist approaches, comes a tall figure, with the body of an athlete and the head of a missionary, with bright eyes and a grizzled beard, a kindly smile, and muscular arms bearded to the elbow. Is this the cure of Graincourt or is it the village mechanic? He is both. Times are hard, since the late separating church from state went into effect, and one must live, explain the cure.

M. le Cure is no martyr, however. His father was a smith, and he grew up with a passion for tools. When the bicycle came in he became an amateur specialist, and for 15 years he has been mending punctured tires and repairing broken pedals for his flock free of charge. Then came the motor car, with its mysterious life, so powerful in its trail envelope. The motor car won the heart of the cure. He loves it, and thinks he understands it. He has even built a car and a motor cycle for himself.

And so the fame of the mechanical cure of Graincourt has gone abroad throughout all the country, and at last he has decided, without any scruple, to make a business of what had formerly been a pastime. He believes in his simple soul that he can be just as good a priest, can administer the sacraments and hear confessions just as well, while he earns his living with his ten fingers.—New York Tribune.

PASTIME OF JOCKEYS.

Get Their Enjoyment Out of Humble Sports.

To the casual visitor to the race tracks around New York, who is quite as much interested in the human spectacle as he is in the races themselves, one of the elements that attract his attention is the pastime of the jockeys. These pale-faced little lads, whose countenances are sadly serious as a rule, have such a curiously boyish way of enjoying themselves between races that it comes as a surprise to one not familiar with their ways to learn that one of the racing men threatened to suspend his $25,000 rider if he did not refrain from spending his nights at Coney island or in the Tenderloin.

The surprise will come to such a man since whenever he has seen them killing time between races they have almost invariably been playing number-nine. Seated on the grass in front of the quarters assigned to them, these boys, in their thin slacks and featherweight boots, spend their time abstractedly absorbed in their game, as if they were ordinary school boys and were not making incomes that run up into the thousands every year. To look at them absorbed in this pastime, one would think that they were as they seem so extremely youthful that one might well wonder if the average habitue of the Tenderloin would not advise such a lad to run home and go to bed.

ADVICE FOR THE BRIDE.

Writer Says Let Hubby Have Occasional Evenings Out.

There are not a few women in the world who have a rooted idea that their husbands should be as much a home fixture as the domestic cat, and this little mistake on their part is an active agent in the propagation of matrimonial woes.

Man is essentially a creature of change, and monotony is the death blow of many a one-time fierce, burning passion. Consequently the wise woman, knowing this, will encourage her husband to spend an occasional evening out, recognizing that her company and that of his home will be better appreciated if sandwiched in between a night with his old chums or one spent at the non-maligned but innocent club meeting.

Early in married life a woman should recognize this fact and act accordingly. Instead of adopting an aggressive attitude when her husband suggests going out, she should smile sweetly, help him to get out and say: "I'm glad you are going out, dear. Don't hurry home," and when he does come it should be to find a smiling wife and a good supper.

This is the sort of marriage which is seldom a failure. The husband of such a wife is always in love with her, and has a habit of mentally contrasting her with the other wives of his acquaintance, much to her advantage.

There are many worse follies than the one who seeks an occasional night out with his particular chums, encourage him, little bride, and don't weep your bonnie eyes out when he takes you at your word. Never mind the example of your neighbor who has a husband of the desecrated hemlock order, says Woman's Life. You do not want anybody to put the first touch of light on your still warm, glowing affection, and this assembly will happen if you do not restrain your passion for an unlimited dose of your husband's company.

ONE THING HE KNEW.

A certain former mayor of Malden, Mass., and a certain former alderman, both of whom for the purposes of this story shall be nameless, were at swords' points during the whole of their political careers, and indeed in many a "wordy" scene. The mayor never had got beyond the high school in his educational career, and the alderman had saved off his schooling with the grammar grade, and neither prided himself on his scholarship.

It happened one day that they indulged in an argument rather more heated than usual. "See here," said the alderman at length, "I may not be much of a scholar, but there is one thing about it, I know enough not to spell Jones with a small 'g'!"

USE FOR SAGE'S MEAT.

Mrs. Russell Sage, it is learned, may be a generous patron of the government to establish a permanent women's art club in Brooklyn or Manhattan at a cost of $100,000 or more. Mrs. Sage has recently been showing a keen interest in women artists of Manhattan, who are struggling to make a livelihood in art. If Mrs. Sage should contribute it is probable that the scheme to raise $100,000 to erect a studio building near Prospect park will be enlarged to raise a much greater sum, probably $300,000 or $400,000.

ROCKEFELLER

Is Behind the Big Harvester Trust.

The International Harvester Trust is the most glaring violator of the Sherman law in the United States. The government has entered upon a further investigation with a view of wiping the trust out of existence.

Behind the trust instead of J. P. Morgan and George W. Perkins, as had been believed, looms up John D. Rockefeller. Harold McCormick married Mr. Rockefeller's daughter.

Rockefeller supplied the $25,000,000 of live capital that was put into the trust and Morgan and Perkins merely acted as brokers, receiving a commission of less than $2,000,000 for their connection with the deal.

New Paper for Lexington.

Lexington is to have a new newspaper. The "Oblooker" is to appear Saturday, July 19. The editor will be Dr. D. H. Keller, who is well known in medical circles and has achieved some fame with the public as the author of the "Oblooker" in the Leader. The policy of the paper will be independent.

HAD NOT FOUND HAPPINESS.

Therefore Workman Returned to Benefactor with Another Request.

A man of extreme wealth, tired of taking care of his money, went to a secluded spot on a river bridge and jumped off. He was not aware that life-savers always frequent secluded spots, and that the best place to commit suicide is on Broadway, at noon. And, sure enough, a poor workman leaped in after him and pulled him out, cold and shivering.

As he stood there, dripping, it occurred to the wealthy man that what he had needed was not eternity, but just a cold bath. And he waxed grateful.

"I am rich beyond telling," he said. "I will grant you any wish—I will make real your wildest hopes."

The poor workman replied instantly: "Then give me $1,000,000."

"A million dollars," answered the wealthy man, "is not a great deal. That is the easiest thing in the world. But you must wait a moment—consider. It was money that made me try to kill myself. You had better go slow."

"A million dollars," repeated the poor workman, "is all I need."

"Very well; you shall have it. But once you have saved my life, I will make this further offer. If at the end of three weeks you are not satisfied with your bargain, come to me, and I will do whatever you wish."

Three years passed, and the former poor workman came to his benefactor's door.

"Aha, I thought so!" exclaimed the man of great wealth. "I knew you would come back. You know now how little mere money means. Now, what can I do for you?"

"Aha! I have found how little happiness can be got with a million," was the sad reply.

"Aha, I knew it!" exclaimed the man of extreme wealth. "And since you have found how little happiness can be got with $1,000,000, what will you have me do for you next?"

"Give me another million," replied the former poor workman.—Judge.

A Question of Privilege.

A well-known Harvard professor was one day traveling by trolley from Cambridge to Boston, where he was to call upon a friend. He asked the conductor to transfer him to the city cars at a certain point.

Soon afterward the car stopped and the Harvard man, on looking out of the window, was surprised to see the very friend he was seeking. He started to leave the car, but the conductor stopped him.

"You can't change here," he said brusquely.

The professor passed him, making no response.

"You can't change here, I tell you," persisted the conductor.

At this time the professor was on the rear step. "Here, you old fellow," exclaimed the conductor, "haven't I told you that you can't change here?"

At this the good man flushed. "Well, I can change my mind here, can't I?"—Lippincott's Magazine.

America's Babel.

This upper corner of Michigan is a show ground of the people of 30 nations at work, side by side in peace and comfort. The native-born is outnumbered on a basis of one American to 100 foreigners.

The Cornwell and Finnish miners lead in numbers, followed by the Irish, Scotch, Welsh, German, Polish, French, Danish, Norwegian, Swedish, Poles, Swiss, Austrians, Belgians, Negroes, Slavs, Bohemians, with a sprinkling above ground of Chinese, Arabians, Persians and one family of Laidlanders.

There is an amazing medley of races, in which the American seems fairly lonesome. Among the local newspapers are the Weekly Gleaner, the Daily Patriot, the American Southerner and La Stentnell.

Even the leading American newspaper publishes for the benefit of its subscribers a daily column in the dialect of Cornwall.—Outing.

Queer Book Titles.

"These old books," said the antiquary, as he pointed to a dusty open shelf, "are curious for their titles."

"Here is a book dated 1743 that is called 'Look to It or Ill Star Ye.' It is a treatise on polygamy."

"This is a pamphlet by a spinster against the young men of the seventeenth century. Its title is 'A Dissertation on the Perils of Our Youth in General, Especially Such as Are Trained Up at Tea Tables.'"

"A return blast to that dissertation is this other pamphlet of the same year—'Quilpines for 'Upstart New-fangled Gentlemen; or, a Glass to View the Pride of Vain-glorious Woman.'"

Civie Pride.

"My town," said the first traveler, "is Greater New York."

"Glad to know you," cried the other; "I'm from Chicago, too."

"I say my town is Greater New York."

"Oh! I thought you said greater than New York."

Called Judgment of God.

Thief's Death at Hands of Child Whose Parents He Had Robbed.

Janos Varga, a stock farmer, sold some oxen for 500 crowns and concealed the money in his house. Ferencs Gal, a ne'er-do-well of the village, knew of this transaction and determined to get the money. He watched the house until he saw Varga and his wife leave it. Then he entered and had no difficulty in finding the money, which he pocketed.

As he was about to leave he noticed sitting in a corner, staring silently and intently at him, the Vargas six-year-old daughter. Realizing that she had watched his theft, he determined to get rid of this witness against him. He threw a rope over a beam in the ceiling and tied a noose in one end of it. Picking up the little girl, he tried to persuade her to put her head into the noose, saying it was a nice game.

"How?" she asked.

"I'll show you," said the robber, laughing.

Gal put down the little girl, drew up a chair, stood upon it and put his head through the noose.

"Is it this," he said, again laughing, "is it as easy a game he was playing with the girl?"

The child pulled the chair away suddenly; the robber fell, his neck caught in the noose and was strangled to death.

The child watched her victim's death struggles until they ceased, then went outside to await for her parents. When they returned she took them to the room where the dead thief still dangled, and told them in great glee what had taken place. The 500 crowns were found in the pockets of the robber and the six-year-old child is now the heroine of the village, where the event is called a "judgment of God."

New Orleans Cities of the Dead.

"New Orleans has several miniature cities within its boundaries, and they are the cities of the dead," said Louis W. Le Franc of the Crescent City.

"I mean," he explained, "that every cemetery in New Orleans is a miniature city. They are built above the ground and laid out in streets, just as the larger city. Every house is of marble and some of the tombs are miniature. In them are buried many men who won fame under the dominion of Spain and France. In them, too, are to be found inscriptions that tell of sweet Creole romances, such as that of Jeanne Lachelle, the popular singer of nearly a century ago, who died of a broken heart."

Certain days are set apart, accordingly, to the old French Catholic custom for visiting these miniature cities, and on these days they are crowded all day long. As they were built so long ago they are now in the center of the city and at night low weeds indeed. Long ago it was found necessary to build the cemeteries above the ground, because of the fact that the city itself is below the level of the Mississippi river."

Voice of Experience.

A young girl recently went to her aunt on a momentous occasion. She explained that a gentleman was coming to see her.

"I am sure he likes me," she sobbed, "and—I think he means to propose. I don't like to ask him how I should act under the circumstances, but—"

"Do you like him?" interrupted aunt sternly.

"Very much," observed her niece.

"Enough to marry him?"

The girl blushed and replied in the affirmative.

"Then," said aunt, with an air of authority, "don't let there be any shilly-shallying. When he proposes, don't turn red and look down at the carpet. Just throw your arms around his neck, look him full in the face and begin talking about the furniture."

A Korean Romance.

A romantic little story comes from the Chuk San district, says the Korea Daily Times. One of the residents having died of illness, his only wife declared her intention of killing herself. Arguing that it was not right for a woman to remain alive after her husband was dead and that she would be far happier if she followed him she put her plan into execution and committed suicide the same night. She was only 20 years of age.

A Difference.

"Why should my anxious breast re pine because my youth has fled?" she sang with great feeling in the hotel parlor.

"Were you married to the youth or only engaged?" asked an impudent debauche who stood near the piano.

Unconsciously Frank.

Barnett Appeared.

On Saturday Henry Barnett, of Jackson, appeared before Mayor Combs in Lexington and testified regarding saloons being open in Lexington on Sunday two weeks ago. He corroborated what he previously stated and gave the name of the saloon, the Navarre. He also said that he bought at another saloon on Sunday and gave name. Owing to absence of some important witnesses the Mayor continued examination until tomorrow. This is an interesting case.

DEATHS.

KING.—Martin V. King, aged 67, died at the home of his son-in-law, Rufus Dunn, on the Winchester pike at the bridge on Monday night, July 15, 1907. The burial was in Winchester this (Wednesday) morning. Services by Rev. Jas. Harding. He had been sick since Wednesday. He leaves a wife and five children—A. W., of Nicholasville; two sons at Ford, Ky.; a daughter at Lexington; one in California and Mrs. Rufus Dunn.

ALLEN.—Mrs. Bette Allen, aged 79 years, died at Owensville on July 9. She was born and reared in that town, the daughter of John A. Barnes and wife, and was an influential and popular woman. She had nine sisters, of whom are Mrs. Joseph McAlister and Mrs. Henrietta Miller, deceased, of this city. Her son and daughters living are: Mrs. Caleb Brooks, of Oklahoma City; Mrs. Corbett, of Paducah; Miss Malinda and Frank, of Owensville.

MOORE.—George W. Moore died at his home in this city on Wednesday morning, July 10, 1907. He was born in Fleming county, Ky., Feb. 25, 1844, hence was in his 64th year. He was married to Miss Mary J. Campbell, of Carlisle, on Nov. 32, 1872. She was the daughter of Jno. A. Campbell, who for about 40 years was Clerk of Nicholas county. After their marriage they came to our city where they have since lived. They have no children, but Mrs. Moore's nephew, Frank Hill, has lived with them and been to them as a son since he was quite young. Mr. Moore was a member of the Methodist Church and for several years had been a steward of the congregation. The funeral service was held at the Methodist Church on Friday morning, July 12th, by his pastor, Rev. H. G. Turner assisted by Rev. H. D. Clark. The body rests in Macphail. Mr. Moore's occupation has been that of carpenter, contractor and builder and he has been conspicuous in the up-building of our city. His life work is finished. He leaves to his family, his church, his community, the rich legacy of a quiet, gentle, religious spirit, an industrious, honest and worthy life—elements that give worth to the possession. Memories of such a life are an inspiration and sweet solace. To his wife we extend our sincere sympathy. The following friends from out of town attended the burial: Silas W. and John Campbell and their wives and Mrs. Angie Waugh, of Carlisle, and Mrs. Mag Taylor, of Winchester.

MOORE.—On last Friday, July 13, the spirit of W. T. Moore went out to meet its God. Mr. Moore had been a subject to Bright's disease for several years and five weeks ago was compelled to give up his business, growing worse until the end came. Funeral services were conducted at the Baptist Church Sunday morning by Rev. J. R. Hobbs, of Owensboro, his nephew, assisted by the pastor, Rev. T. Benton Hill, and the remains were buried in Macphail Cemetery. Mr. Moore was born in Henry county, November 12, 1850. He was married in 1873 to Miss Sarah Elizabeth McMann, by whom he had two children, W. C. Moore, of this city, and Mrs. F. E. Fogg, of West Liberty. She died in 1889. His second marriage was in 1892 to Miss Thomas A. Brown, who, with his two children, one grandchild, William O'Rear Fogg, seven brothers, John P., of St. Louis, Mo.; J. M., Cave Run; Henry Clay, of Louisville; L. N. and Pasco Bright, of Beaver City, Oklahoma; Claude P., of Somerset, and L. M., of Lexington, and one sister, Mrs. E. H. Mansfield, of Beaver City, Oklahoma, survive him, all of whom were with him except one brother, Pasco Bright Moore, of Beaver City, Oklahoma. The brothers present acted as his pall-bearers. Mrs.

John P. Moore, of Louisville, and Mrs. L. M. Moore, of Lexington; E. W. Brown and wife, of Louisville; Messrs. John and Pierce Hendricks, Frank Carr, general passenger agent L. & N., Lexington; Mr. C. P. Stone, traveling passenger agent L. & N., Louisville; William Merchant, of Lexington, and Mrs. R. C. Mansfield and son, of Winchester, attended the funeral service. Mr. Moore came to Mt. Sterling in 1874 as express messenger, was later local express agent and for 23 years has been chief clerk of the C. & O. in this city. He was an honored member of the order of Macabees, a Deacon of the Mt. Sterling Baptist Church and died as he had lived, a correct business man and charitable Christian gentleman. The floral offerings were beautiful and of elaborate and fitting designs, indicative of the genuine high esteem in which Mr. Moore was held in the hearts of the people. A man of enviable character, proud to do only what is just. By his death the city loses a man of principle, the church one of helpful powers, the wife and children a loving husband, father, and the poor and unfortunate the ideal charity giving friend. Though his form has passed from view, his life will continue an inspiration to those who would walk the narrow way that leadeth to God.

Mr. Wyatt, who has conducted seven-teen parties to the Falls, will have personal charge and will spare no pains to make the trip one of seven days' pleasure. Ladies and children will be looked after by lady chaperones of experience. For full particulars see ticket agents, or write Chas. Kratzberger, G. A., P. D. Big Four Route, Cincinnati, O., or J. D. Wyatt, Room 36 Ingles Building, Cincinnati, Special Agent Big Four.

Don't fail to consider this matter. No man or woman of literature or society can afford not to witness one of Nature's greatest marvels. It is a sight to picture to your children and they to generations that may come after. Consider the cost, the comfort, the knowledge to be attained and then hasten to make arrangements for this trip. Mr. Wyatt is a relation of our Wyatts, a Kentuckian and will care for the guests as if they were his own family.

RELIGIOUS

The union service will be held at the vacant First Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening.

Five Baptist churches in Louisville are pastorless and five committees are looking for successors.

Dr. E. O. Guernant will preach at Springfield next Sabbath at 11 o'clock and at Owensville at 7:30 p. m.

Prof. Cord is conducting a meeting at Somerset, preaching each morning at 10 o'clock (except on Sunday at 11 o'clock) and each evening.

Do you really think you have a right to stay away from church because of shortcomings of some of the members? Suppose the apostles had refused to follow Christ because of Judas?

Do you propose to act from grievance instead of from duty and love of God? Do you think it is right to fly the torch because you are offended at some of the workmen? Is that what you promised when you professed faith in Christ? Can you get free from your duty because some one doesn't discharge his? Have you no responsibility—only likes and dislikes?

Besides, what will be the effect on your own spiritual life of abating yourself from the house of God? Will you not lose the faith you have? Will not your grievances get bigger when you are no longer in touch with your accustomed means of grace? Can you afford this? Will you be deprived of what rightfully belongs to you, and what God says you need, because of what some one else has done?

In any case, is it not according to the teachings of the religion you profess to forgive injuries, to do good to them that hate you, and pray for them that despitefully use you and persecute you? Have you any reason for acting as you do? and are there not many reasons why you should act in just the opposite way?—The Lookout.

Geo. Haggard delivered on June 25th to W. M. Robb 41 lambs, the produce of 25 ewes that weighed 3,280. He received 7 cents per pound, making a total of $236.60 or $9.46 for the produce of each ewe. The 25 ewes gave birth to 51 lambs but had ventiler and hogs destroyed 10 of them.

The Winchester Water Company is having the reservoir cleared of moss and grass. This is done by dragging bags of Sulphate of Copper through water. Within thirty-six hours after treatment, the moss and water grasses die and are precipitated to the bottom. They can then be removed. This does not injure the water nor destroy the fish. The experiment was first made by a government expert here in 1904 and proved such a success that its use has become universal.
